Respected Shri Narendra Modi ji,

Pranam.

With utmost sincerity and patriotism, I write to you today not merely as a citizen, but as a young soldier of your vision for a self-reliant, globally powerful India.

Through your transformative leadership, our nation has risen in every domain—be it space, defense, manufacturing, or digital connectivity. Inspired by your clarion call for Atmanirbhar Bharat, I have given my all—my time, my resources, my very soul—to build something that can protect India’s digital independence and establish our global dominance in the technology space.

I present to you the Jigyasa Project — India’s first vernacular-centric, privacy-first search engine, developed with the dream to:

- Break the digital monopoly of foreign tech giants like Google,
- Empower over 700 million Indian users through native language search,
- Ensure data sovereignty with anonymous, untracked access to information,
- Provide AI-driven, culturally rooted results, relevant to every corner of Bharat,
- Serve Tier 2 and Tier 3 cities with low-bandwidth, high-efficiency performance.

Respected Modiji, the global search engine market is not just about convenience—it's about control. Every click, every query, every personal detail today goes to servers outside India. This is digital colonialism, and the longer we wait, the deeper its roots grow.

Jigyasa is India’s answer.

It is not just a product—it is a platform that can:

- Establish India as a global leader in vernacular AI and privacy tech,
- Create a historic digital milestone akin to ISRO’s success and UPI’s global influence,
- Bring thousands of local businesses online, fostering rural and regional economies,
- And most importantly, make the world search through India, not just for India.

I humbly share with you that I have invested every rupee I had in building Jigyasa. Not for profit, but for nation-first service. Yet, I find very few willing to understand the new era India must lead. I believe that you, our most visionary leader, will understand the urgency, sensitivity, and potential of this movement.

With your blessings, guidance, and support, I dream of making India the creator, not the consumer, of the world’s leading search ecosystem.

I earnestly request a chance to present the Jigyasa Project to your respected office. This initiative has the power to open a new chapter in India’s history, where we are no longer digitally dependent but digitally dominant.

With folded hands and unshakable faith in your mission for a Viksit Bharat @2047,

Jai Hind. Jai Bharat.

With utmost respect,
Jitanshu Trivedi
